After taking a personality assessment, I found that my personality type is ENTJ (Commander), which aligns well with my bold, strategic, and goal-driven approach to challenges.

Key Traits

- Extraverted: I thrive in team settings, guiding and collaborating effectively, as seen in my role as a Frontend Developer Head.
- Intuitive: I spot patterns and future opportunities, such as improving ML model performance at Oracle through better preprocessing.
- Thinking: Logical problem-solving is my strength, helping me align teams and tackle complex issues.
- Judging: I value structure, set clear goals, and ensure efficient execution through strong organization.
- Assertive: Confidence helps me tackle unfamiliar challenges, research solutions, and lead knowledge-sharing initiatives.

Strengths

- Leadership & Collaboration: Led teams in college and internships, conducted workshops, and managed website development.
- Strategic Thinking: Focus on long-term solutions, enhancing processes during my Oracle internship.
- Commitment to Growth: Balancing work and an IITM BSc degree, constantly learning new technologies.

Challenges Overcome

- Communication & Coordination: Improved team collaboration by scheduling regular meetings.
- Meeting Deadlines: Late-night work during internships taught me persistence and time management.
- Technical Gaps: Took the initiative to research and educate teams on new technologies.

Personal Growth & Balance

I prioritize continuous learning, problem-solving, and emotional awareness. While maintaining a busy schedule, I ensure work-life balance by spending time with friends and networking.

This ENTJ profile reinforces my passion for leadership, strategy, and self-improvement while reminding me to maintain balance and adaptability.
